~ The Importance of Cooperation Learned at Mountain School (4th) ~

On September 14th and 15th, Mountain School was held at the Kibi Youth Nature House.

With the goal of "responsibility, independence, and cooperation," the 4th grade children worked together with their peers in activities such as outdoor cooking (making curry), which they started by chopping firewood by themselves, a walk rally in which they aimed for the goal while consulting with their group friends, and field athletic activities. They also had a good time around the sacred fire at the campfire, introducing each other's presentations. In anticipation of the integration of the two schools, there were many occasions when they interacted with their friends from Yoshikawa and Yamato Elementary Schools, making the two days even more memorable.

~ After 4 Years 1 Night 2 Days School Trip (6th) ~

On October 5th and 6th, under clear autumn skies, a two-day and one-night school trip was held for the town's combined school trip.

The children were able to explore and shop with great anticipation during their visit to Nara and Kyoto. It must have been an important experience for them to actually see and feel the precious cultural assets that they had researched and studied. They were able to feel the joy of sharing the same space with their friends. They will make use of this experience in making pamphlets for their Japanese class.

Thank you to all the parents and guardians who worked from early in the until late in the evening to pick up and drop off the children.

~ Town Science Research • Town Inventive Ideas Exhibition

There was a judging session in the town for the scientific research and inventive ideas that the children worked hard on during their summer vacation. Representatives from Kibikogen Elementary School also made presentations and exhibited their works, and received excellent results. All of the works were wonderful and made us realize the

"Here's a Chair" ☆ From the Morning Assembly ☆

On Thursday, September 28, we read the first part of the picture book "Here's a Chair" to the students during the school assembly. When I asked them if they had read this book, most of the children raised their hands. When all of them finished reading, they could feel warmth in their hearts. In October, we hope that you will be able to live with a kind heart like the animals in the story.
